

National Occupational Standards for Social Work

2011

Working together. Making a difference.

The National Occupational Standards for Social Work (NOS) were revised in 2011 and are published by the UK Commission for Education and Skills. The consultation exercise included people who use services, carers, employers, practitioners, government officials, representatives from further and higher education and from professional bodies.

NOS have numerous uses in the workplace or in the development of the individual. These include defining roles at work, staff recruitment, supervision and appraisal, identifying training or Continuing Professional Development (CPD) needs, and staff planning. They help maintain high quality social care services.

NOS are also a valuable tool to be used as benchmarks for qualifications and the social work degree is based upon the NOS for Social Work.

The Health and Social Care NOS are jointly owned by all the alliance partners within the Sector Skills Councils 'Skills for Care and Development' and 'Skills for Health'. Any reviews of NOS are undertaken jointly by all UK alliance partners. Northern Ireland Social Care Council, is responsible for reviewing and developing of NOS for Health and Social Care to ensure they reflect the needs of the NI social care workforce. We do this with a representative sample of employers and other key stakeholders. All of the completed and approved NOS are kept on the UK Commission for Employment and Skills \(UKCES\) Standards Database. This is easily accessible and allows people to search for the different jobs they are interested in.

Knowledge and Understanding Compendium for the Social Work NOS 2011

A. Introduction to the Compendium

While the National Occupational Standards for Social Work each address a discrete function within social work practice, the statements of knowledge and understanding within them are by their nature cross-cutting. These statements represent the extensive body of knowledge that underpins social work practice as a whole. Repetition of many items is therefore inevitable across the NOS themselves.

To clarify the relationship between all the knowledge and understanding statements, the following devices have been used:

- This document gathers together all statements of knowledge and understanding used anywhere in the Social Work NOS, grouping them under headings for ease of reference.
- The accompanying Knowledge Matrix lists the statements as here and indicates in which NOS each statement is used.
- The Matrix shows the number assigned to each statement in individual NOS, as for technical reasons this number varies from one NOS to another.
- Within each NOS, the statements occur in the same overall order as in this document.

Skills Compendium for the Social Work NOS 2011

A. Introduction to the Compendium

While the National Occupational Standards for Social Work each address a discrete function within social work practice, they include within them a section identifying skills that are transferable across the different functions. Being transferable, there is much repetition of these skills statements across the suite of NOS.

To clarify the relationship between all the skills statements in the Social Work NOS, the following devices have been used:

- This document gathers together all the skills statements used anywhere in the Social Work NOS, grouping them under headings for ease of reference.
- The accompanying Skills Matrix lists the statements as here and indicates in which NOS each statement is used.
- The Matrix shows the number assigned to each statement in individual NOS, as for technical reasons this number varies from one NOS to another.
- Within each NOS, the statements occur in the same overall order as in this document.

SW1 Maintain an up to date knowledge and evidence base for social work practice.

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. In order to practise safely and professionally, social workers must continually equip themselves with a body of knowledge and evidence that draws on academic literature, research, local understanding and national legislation relating to their sphere of activity. The standard establishes a planned approach to on-going study and research that will help to secure evidence-based and legally sound social work practice.

SW2 Develop social work practice through supervision and reflection.

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. The twin strands of professional supervision and personal reflection are essential to the development of practice and social workers must make effective use of both. These in turn need to be informed by feedback from others, and supplemented with less formal support when this is helpful or necessary. The standard addresses these areas and ensures that new learning is integrated within practice, so as to improve individual practice and contribute to developing the profession as a whole.

Key role 1: Maintain professional accountability

SW1 Maintain an up to date knowledge and evidence base for social work practice.

SW1 Performance criteria - You must be able to:

- P1 Establish your own strategy for maintaining an up to date knowledge and evidence base for social work practice.
- P3 Research statutory, legal and procedural requirements and academic literature relating to social work practice.
- P4 Analyse the statutory and non statutory powers exercised by social workers and organisations.
- P5 Review the outcomes of previous social work practice for individuals, families, groups and communities locally.
- P6 Review your own knowledge about issues of equality, fairness, access and anti-discriminatory practice and provision.
- P7 Synthesise information to understand how evidence-based practice applies in your own role.
- P8 Plan, with support, how to integrate current and emerging research into your own practice.

SW1 Knowledge and understanding- You need to know and understand:

- K1 International legislation, its relationship to UK policies and social work practices.
- K2 UK legislation, its relationship to national policies and social work practices.
- K3 National legislation, its relationship to policies and social work practices.
- K4 Statutory and professional codes, standards, frameworks and guidance, their relationship to social work policy and practice.
- K5 The characteristics of the home nation, its language, culture, geography and institutions.
- K6 Theories underpinning our understanding of human development and factors that affect it.

Functional map/key roles for social work nos

Key role 2 Practise professional social work

SW3 Manage your role as a professional social worker

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. Social work makes demands not only on social workers' professional knowledge and skill, but also on their personal capacities. The work can affect their personal well-being, both physical and emotional. The standards addresses the need for conscious planning of how best to use time, energy and expertise, how best to stay safe in situations where there is risk, and how to manage the social work role within its various contexts and constraints.

SW4 Exercise professional judgement in social work

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. At the heart of social work practice is the need to make judgements that will impact on the lives of others, sometimes in challenging circumstances or with extreme effects. Independent judgements must be made even when working in person centred ways and in close partnership with others. The standard expresses how social workers must bring to the decision-making process a rigorous and thoughtful analysis of information and its implications, leading to judgements that can be asserted with confidence to ensure that the best interests of those involved are being served.

SW5 Manage ethical issues, dilemmas and conflicts

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. The complex situations encountered by social workers often present issues, dilemmas and conflicts that have a strong ethical dimension. These may arise from tensions between rights and responsibilities, between risk and protection, between assessed need and available resources. The standard addresses the cycle of research, reflection, action and learning in the context of ethical decision-making.

SW6 Practise social work in multi-disciplinary contexts

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. Effective multi-disciplinary work is an essential component of social work: the information known to different agencies must be shared to identify those at risk, the skills of different professions must be co-ordinated to benefit those with complex requirements, the resources of different agencies must be pooled to maximise person centred outcomes. The standard addresses the components of multi-disciplinary working while maintaining the distinctive role and contribution of the social worker.

SW7 Prepare professional reports and records relating to people

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities, and others whose work involves the preparation of professional reports and records in similar contexts. Reports that will be used when making decisions about people's lives must be accurate, honest, cogently presented and responsibly disseminated. Information technology offers new and effective ways of presenting and sharing information. The standard addresses practices for high quality report-writing, record-keeping and information-sharing in the context of legal, organisational and ethical requirements.

Key role 3 Promote engagement and participation

SW8 Prepare for social work involvement

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. Inadequate preparation prior to initial social work contact can be disrespectful, a source of frustration and potentially dangerous. The need to be fully prepared must be balanced with an open-mindedness that avoids assumptions and recognises the expertise people have about their own situations, which may or may not have been captured in existing information. The standard addresses how best to gather diverse information (even if incomplete) and use it to plan the best beginning for social work involvement.

SW9 Engage people in social work practice

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. To engage people in exploring and addressing their own circumstances is a vital part of social work practice that weaves through all other aspects of the role. It requires social workers to use their own skills and qualities as resources to build and sustain engagement, sometimes when encountering reluctance or resistance.

The standard addresses the central place of communication and creativity in this context, and recognises the potential of people to use their own resourcefulness to achieve change.

SW10 Support people to participate in decision-making processes

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities, and others who work in similar contexts. Decision-making processes relating to social work or similar contexts are often complex and may be daunting for those caught up in them. Supporting people to participate is of fundamental importance and may take many forms if it is to enable people to be heard rather than spoken for unnecessarily. The standard addresses the process of supporting participation, from assessing people's capacity to speak for themselves to confirming their understanding of the outcomes of their participation. It recognises that support for participation must include challenging barriers and discrimination as well as building people's own capacity to advocate for themselves.

SW11 Advocate on behalf of people

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities, and others working in similar contexts. In a particular situation or over a longer period of time, it may be necessary to represent people's views, needs or wishes when they are not in a position to do so for themselves. The standard addresses what is involved in advocating on behalf of others, including the need to consider conflicts of interest, to maximise participation by working closely together throughout, and to ensure that the outcomes of advocacy are fully understood.

Key role 3: Promote engagement and participation

SW8 Prepare for social work involvement.

SW8 Performance criteria - You must be able to:

Functional map/key roles for social work nos

Key role 4 Assess needs, risks and circumstances

SW12 Assess needs, risks and circumstances in partnership with those involved

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. Assessment is a distinctive professional activity within social work. Accurate, comprehensive and person centred assessment helps to ensure that consequent social work involvement will truly fit people's lives and circumstances, and planning cannot begin until assessment is complete. Assessment of risk is an important feature of the process (though not the only one) and tensions may arise between rights and responsibilities in relation to this. The standard recognises that people are experts about their own lives and that information held by others, including those in other agencies or disciplines, also has a crucial role to play in building a holistic assessment.

SW13 Investigate harm or abuse

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. Investigating harm or abuse is a complex and demanding activity which has at its heart the safe-guarding of a vulnerable adult, young person or child. It involves working closely with other disciplines and agencies; exercising professional assertiveness in situations where there may be overt or covert hostility; making difficult judgements; and developing options for action which may have far-reaching consequences. All this must be done in the context of legal, organisational and other binding requirements. The standard covers these aspects and highlights the need to maintain a focus on the person who is at risk, whatever others needs or issues may come to light during the investigation process.

Key role 4: Assess needs, risks and circumstances

SW12 Assess needs, risks and circumstances in partnership with those involved.

SW12 Performance criteria - You must be able to:

- P1 Listen to people's own accounts of their situation.
- P2 Work holistically with people to enable them to identify, clarify and express their strengths, needs and expectations.

Functional map/key roles for social workers

Key role 5 Plan for person centred outcomes

SW14 Plan in partnership to address short and longer term issues

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. Planning within social work is about seeking creative ways to achieve outcomes, not about matching people to traditional or existing services. Solutions may be found within people themselves or their personal networks; through combining services in new or more established ways; or by specifying what tailor made support might look like. The standard addresses the cycle of working together to identify outcomes and objectives, explore possible solutions and check their feasibility, and agree a plan that builds in ways to test how well the solution is working.

SW15 Agree risk management plans to promote independence and responsibility

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. The association between risk, independence and personal responsibility makes risk management within social work a dynamic undertaking. It includes balancing different rights and responsibilities, and exploring ways to enable risks to be taken where these have the potential to enhance people's lives. The standard addresses these areas while recognising that specific safe-guards may nonetheless be necessary. It sets risk management planning in the context of collaborative work and highlights the importance of shared agreement and on-going monitoring of risk-related plans.

SW16 Agree plans where there is risk of harm or abuse

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. Where risk of harm or abuse has been investigated and confirmed, plans to address the risk must be agreed as a matter of urgency within a multi-agency framework. While the initial focus must be on securing short-term safety, therapeutic objectives must also be addressed. These will include identifying the least damaging plan of action for the short term and planning for restorative approaches, where possible, in the longer term. The standard covers these areas in the context of collaborative multi-disciplinary working.

Key role 5: Plan for person centred outcomes

SSW14 Plan in partnership to address short and longer term issues.

SW14 Performance criteria - You must be able to:

- P1 Support people to understand the planning process and their rights and responsibilities within it.
- P2 Work with people to agree the overall outcome that the plan should achieve.
- P3 Establish agreement on short, medium and long term objectives.
- P4 Support people to recognise resources within themselves, their personal networks and the community.
- P5 Explore with the people involved a range of possible solutions and their feasibility.
- P6 Formulate a plan based on collated information.
- P7 Establish agreement to the plan with those involved in it or affected by it.
- P8 Agree how the plan will be monitored and reviewed.
- P9 Record the plan and any issues or needs that the plan does not seek to address.

Functional map/key roles for social workers

Key role 6 Take actions to achieve change

SW17 Apply methods and models of social work intervention to promote change

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. Sound knowledge of a range of evidence-based interventions, coupled with a social worker's use of self in applying them, stand as key resources in social work practice. The focus of the intervention may be a group, an individual or a system within which an individual functions. The standard recognises that different interventions will need to be selected for different situations, and the choice explained when necessary. The standard also stresses the need for careful reflection on the effectiveness of any intervention used, with an openness to learn and adapt practice to help achieve change as the intervention proceeds.

SW18 Access resources to support person centred solutions

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. The role of social workers in accessing resources is often beset with constraints of eligibility, funding, availability and suitability. Creative problem-solving and innovative thinking are crucial skills, not only to maximise scarce resources but also to ensure that services and other resources truly suit the people for whom they have been secured and enable outcomes to be achieved. The standard reflects these considerations and acknowledges the different roles that social workers may need to take when accessing resources.

Evaluate outcomes of social work practice

Overview

This standard is for social workers working with individuals, families, carers, groups and communities. Evaluation can easily be overlooked when new demands are constantly being presented, but it is an essential step in continually improving social work practice and people's experience of it. The primary focus of evaluation must be on people themselves and how well they have benefitted from interventions, risk management and resources. The standard addresses the process of evaluation including both personal reflection and objective review using different perspectives and measures, including organisational aspects. It recognises that lessons learned must inform future practice and can influence the wider profession also.
